NEWS FROM ALL QUARTERS

Desertions from the Army.

The report of Gen. Grant mentions the remarkable fact that during the last year no fewer than 13,000 men have deserted from the army. The greater part of these desertions, we presume, occurred on the Plains, where it is well known men often enlist in westward bound regiments for the express purpose of getting cheap and safe conveyance to the mining regions. During the last season, for example, more than half of the Seventh Cavalry, (Custer's) disappeared with their horses, arms and accoutrements, and probably made their way to the gold regions of Colorado and Montana. A desperado, who wants to reach the diggings, has only to enroll himself in some command bound for the Indian country, and he is pretty sure of an opportunity to make off when he has marched as far as he chooses to go. The number of recruits during the year was 31,000, so that the desertions reach the enormous ratio of nearly 40 per cent. of the enrollments.

Another Trans-Continental Railway.

Our South American neighbors are to have a trans-continental railroad in imitation of ours. A Chilian correspondent writes that a project is on foot to extend the Valparaiso and Santiago Railroad across the Andes to Buenos Ayres. There is a company formed at the latter place that have applied to that Government for a charter and a grant of land on both sides of the track upon which they propose to establish colonies. They propose to cross the Andes upon the plain known as the Planchon, which presents but few difficulties that cannot be overcome. The engineer of the line is Otto Von Armen, a German, who has made the preliminary surveys of the route, which he declares are quite practicable. The colonies proposed are to be German, but all other nationalities will secure grants of land upon the same terms. The Government of Chili has been invited by that of Buenos Ayres to join in carrying out this undertaking. As an index of how railroading pays and is progressing in South American States, it may be stated that the railroad from Valparaiso to Santiago has during the past year the sum of $910,241, being quite an increase over the previous year.

Treasure in Canada.

A Boston gentleman writes to the effect that city has a multitude of little snake-like forms have been found in the Fraser River, and he reasons that as the weight of these forms is not sufficient to kill the fish, we thus have a hardly credible evidence of the wonderful richness of the product of the mines. It is said that these forms that are found in the Fraser River will be relished by a lively appetite, and will be a delicacy a little above in the estimation of Mr. Agassiz gland's favorite fish.

Gen. G. [illegible] in the Fifth District for Congress.

The following [illegible] was introduced in the House of Representatives [illegible], November 27, by Mr. Blaine, and adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be directed to communicate to this House any and all correspondence addressed by him to the President of the United States upon the removal of Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, and of General P. H. Sheridan, commander of the Fifth Military District, and General D. E. Sickles, commander of the Second Military District, and also any correspondence or orders while in force showing the condition of the Fifth Military District prior to the Military [illegible] West bill; and any order or mandation he may have made thereon, and what steps, [illegible] have been taken; and also correspondence in regard to the difficulties in Baltimore touching the Police Commissioners, and other matters pertaining to the [illegible] and further, all orders and correspondence in regard to the expedition of the General of the Army in Mexico in the year 1866.

[illegible] Loan.

The New York Tribune says: Raphael Semmes, ex-"Admiral" of the late Southern Confederacy, is illustrating the native modesty of his section by lecturing at Nashville upon his exploits in burning unarmed merchant ships while he had the honor of being the commander of the pirate steamer Alabama. If Captain Kidd had not been prematurely hanged he might have anticipated the gallant Southron in a line of lectures not heretofore heard outside the walls of penitentiaries or of the lower order of dog-rooms. Here is the little programme of "Admiral" Semmes' three lectures:

1. The equipment of the Alabama as a Confederate cruiser, viewed by the light of the laws of nations and of American principles.

2. The final cruise of the Alabama from her outfit at the Azores to the Banks of New Foundland, and the north western coasts of the United States, being a foray of six weeks against the enemy's commerce.

3. The second cruise of the Alabama, from the north-eastern coasts of the United States, through the West Indies, and into and out of the Gulf of Mexico, being a further cruise of six weeks.

Any citizen of Nashville who will dare to hear how gallantly this sea robber and incendiary acquitted defenceless schooners, how cleverly he kept out of the way of anybody big enough to talk back, can enjoy the hero's narrative from his own lips for fifty cents a lecture, $1 50 is despicable greenbacks for the whole dose. The Banner of that city says that "the gallant ex-commander of the Alabama will meet with the reception which his fame and services merit from the people of Nashville, we predict with the utmost confidence." It is not [illegible] northern barbarians may have the [illegible] privilege of doing the late elections have greatly encouraged the unreconstructed, and where could the brave ship burner look for a more interested and tantalizing audience than right here, where our groveling insurance companies are yet busy in paying up losses by fire (kindled by the harsh Germans) on the high seas. With half a dozen ship-burners, whose property he destroyed or stole, sitting in the front seats, the modest lecturer might be inspired into flights of rhetoric that would outdo his best editorial efforts at Memphis. Will not the Manhattan Club give "Admiral" Semmes an invitation?

Bill Payable in Gold.

The following paragraphs are from the report of the Secretary of the Treasury:

Now, to what is the United States pledged in regard to the public debt? Is it not that it shall be paid according to the understanding between the Government and the subscribers to its loans at the time the subscriptions were solicited and obtained? And can there be any question in regard to the nature of this understanding? Was it not that, while the interest bearing notes should be converted into bonds or paid in lawful money, the bonds should be paid, principal as well as interest, in coin? Was not this the understanding of the Congress which passed the loan bills and of the people who furnished the money? Did any member of the House or of the Senate, prior to 1864, in the exhaustive discussion of these bills, ever intimate that the bonds to be issued in accordance with their provisions might be paid, when redeemable, in a depreciated currency? Was there a single subscriber to the five-twenty bonds or to the seven and three-tenth notes, which by their terms were convertible into bonds, who did not believe, and were not given to understand by the agents of the Government, that both the principal and interest of these bonds were payable in coin? Does any one suppose that the people of the United States, self-sacrificing as they were in the support of the Government, would have sold their stocks, their lands, the products of their farms, of their factories and their shops, and invested the proceeds in five-twenty bonds and seven and three-tenth notes convertible into such bonds, if they had understood that these bonds were to be redeemed after five years from their respective dates in a currency of the value of which they could form no reliable estimate? Would the Secretary of the Treasury, or would Congress—when the fate of the nation was trembling in the balance, and when a failure to raise money for the support of the Federal army would have been success to the rebellion and ruin to the Union cause—have dared to attempt the experiment of raising money on bonds redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, in a currency the convertible value of which might not depend upon the solvency of the Government, but upon the amount in circulation? No such understanding existed, and fortunately no such experiment was tried.

The bonds were negotiated with the definite understanding that they were payable in coin, and the seven and three-tenth notes with an equally definite understanding that they were convertible at the option of the holder into bonds of a similar character or payable in lawful money. The contracts were made in good faith on both sides, a part of them when the Government was in imminent peril and needed money to preserve its existence, the balance when its necessities were scarcely less urgent, for the pay [illegible] of its just obligations to contractors and to the gallant men by whom the nation had been saved. Good faith and public honor, which to a nation are of priceless worth, require that these contracts should be complied with in the spirit in which they were made. The holders of our bonds, at home and abroad, who understand the character of the people of the United States and the greatness of the national resources, ought not to need an assurance that they will be so complied with.

Northern Pacific Railroad—Organization of the Michigan Division.

Not long since, says the Detroit Post, we commented at length on the importance to our city and State of the Northern Pacific railroad and the prospects of its construction. Since that time the Michigan division of the road has been organized, sufficient capital stock having been [illegible] for that purpose. The names of the directors are sufficient indication that the work will not be [illegible] and to last. They include some of the wealthiest capitalists in the country, and are known to be men of enterprise who push through whatever they undertake. The following gentlemen are the directors: Hon. Erastus Corning, Albany; Gen. H. E. Baxter, Rutland, Vt.; Thomas Swinyard, Hamilton, Ontario; Nathaniel Thayer, Boston; Henry S. Wells, New York city; E. H. Ward, Detroit; Henry D. Cope, Flint; Hon. Roswell Hart, Rochester, N. Y.; Orlando M. Barnes, Monroe, Mich.

The line proposed to be built by this company extends from Saginaw to the straits of Mackinac, and crossing to the upper peninsula continues to the Montreal river, the north-eastern boundary of Michigan. This point is but a short distance from Superior City. From Superior City westward through Minnesota the line has been already been organized and the road is in process of construction. The Michigan division is an important link in the chain, and its completion will insure the rapid progress toward Montana of the Northern Pacific Railroad. The division recently organized, we are assured, will push forward the work as rapidly as possible. The lines passes through the counties of Saginaw, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Roscommon, Crawford, Otsego, Cheboygan, Mackinaw, Schoolcraft, Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon. The line of the Flint and Pere Marquette road will be followed to the vicinity of Houghton lake, in Roscommon county. From this point the two roads will diverge, the Flint line to Marquette passing to the north-west and the Northern Michigan running due north to the straits of Mackinac.

North from Saginaw the Flint and Pere Marquette road has been completed during the present season to Midland, a distance of about 36 miles. During the next season the two companies will unite their energies and resources to build the road to the point of divergence, a distance of about 40 miles north of Midland. Toward this work the northern part of Michigan has subscribed the amount assigned them, $75,000. This has been taken as follows: Flint, $19,000; Wenona, $6,815; and the balance, with the exception of $1,000 [illegible] by O. M. Barnes, the present [illegible] Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company, was taken by the two Saginaws, the greater portion in East Saginaw. It is now confidently [illegible] that the 40 miles [illegible] will be completed early next season, when the road northward toward the straits will be pushed forward rapidly as practicable. This part of the enterprise is not yet [illegible], and the [illegible] are yet to be made.

Hop Growing in Wisconsin.

The Milwaukie Sentinel says that Wisconsin produced more than one-third, and Sauk county alone one-fifth of all the hops raised in the United States of the present year. The 4,000,000 pounds produced in that county brought something over $2,000,000, about $1,500,000 of which is clear profit, and they were raised in a little more than twenty-five hundred acres of land.

Odd Fellowship in the United States.

The report of the Grand Secretary of the Order in the United States has been received. It reports the membership at the present time to be 211,656; there having been an accession the past year of 33,764 members. The receipts for the past year have been $1,965,716 61, of which $1,180,123 50 were from bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge, and $506,593 64 from bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Encampment. The total relief [illegible] and in the same time was $634,875 97, of which $525,820 25 were by the bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge. The relief of widows by the bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Encampment was $64,655 12.

Contributions for the Democratic Party.

The New York Tribune, commenting on the alarm of the Copperhead press lest the Republicans of the South should elect just enough Pilots, says that the Democratic party cannot have this effective dispensation of Providence with the reflection that the leaders of the South have elected the President over since the administration of Jackson. Considered as chattels, their importance has constituted the chief power of the ballots cast by their masters, and those ballots have elected Van Buren, Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan. To this the cotton lords would probably reply that the negro furnished the muscle, and the white man the brains of the ballot.

Universal Suffrage.

Some months since considerable capital against Secretary McCulloch was made by some of the Copperhead papers, who copied and [illegible] upon certain statements made by Edward C. Dunbar, a New York penny-a-liner. This man who was a discharged employee of the Treasury Department, made some grave charges against the management of the internal affairs of the institution, and the Whisky Ring, whose tool Dunbar is supposed to be, caught up and circulated the statements far and wide. The Congressional Joint Committee on Retrenchment sent for Dunbar to testify before them; but Dunbar would not come. He was arrested, but could not or would not testify; he was finally released, having satisfied the Committee that he had "scruples of honor" as to divulging upon oath what he had so freely charged in the newspapers. Mr. Dunbar's painful experience is another example of the fact that it is far easier to make charges than to prove them.

The Copperhead papers of Oregon have been quoting largely from this characteristic libeller.

Senator Wade and the Rebel [illegible].

The Copperhead papers here have also been quoting freely from a late newspaper report of Senator Wade's opinions. The following late dispatch from Washington settles this matter:

Mr. Wade alludes in indignant terms to the conversation which was recently published in a Western paper concerning his political views. He says a "fellow" called at his office, and after spending some ten minutes in conversation, went home to Cincinnati and published over two columns of his opinions, which were wholly exaggerated and untrue.

[illegible] for a Military Road in Idaho.

The following is a Washington dispatch of November 24th:

The Commissioner of the General Land Office yesterday transmitted to the Governor of Oregon, a certified transcript of lands [illegible] to that State under the provisions of the act of Congress approved July 2, 1864, to aid in the construction of a military road from Eugene City to the eastern boundary of the State. The list embraces lands in the Roseburg district, containing in the aggregate 19,153 acres.

Maximilian's Body—Its Surrender to Admiral Tegethoff.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing under date of Mexico, Nov. 10th, says:

The body of the Emperor Maximilian will be sent in a few days, under a strong escort, to Vera Cruz, there to be formally delivered to Admiral Tegethoff. On the 9th inst., that officer, accompanied by eight or ten personal or official friends, including Dr. Basch, the Emperor's physician, was permitted by the Government to make a formal examination of the condition of the body before its departure. Persons who were present give the following account of it: The body is partly dressed in black, all the clothes, even the gloves, being of the Emperor's own wardrobe. At first except the patent leather boots. It is [illegible] the skin is several hundredths, one of them [illegible] of gutta percha, as a preservation against the effects of damp. The brain, heart and [illegible] have been carefully embalmed and placed in the proper cavities of the body. The whole is enclosed in a leaden coffin, doubtless produced [illegible] by the Emperor's long sickness prior to his execution, and partly by the pressure of circumstances. The end of the more, which had an [illegible] with wax that it appears perfectly natural. The artificial eyes, which are open, are of a somewhat darker shade than the Emperor's. The peculiar board and long mustache were [illegible] ed, except that along the edge of the [illegible] the hair is shorter than he was accustomed to wear it, and looks rubbed and worn. The hole in the back of the head is almost wholly [illegible] the results of the theft of it which [illegible] have taken place at Queretaro. The [illegible] this and apparently decayed or shrunken in the process of embalmment. Mr. Seward's Reception Tour.

The Hamilton (Canada) Spectator has the following:

There can be no doubt that the Intercolonial is the connecting link in the chain, and its completion will insure the rapid progress toward Montana of the Northern Pacific Railroad. The division recently organized, we are assured, will push forward the work as rapidly as possible. The lines passes through the counties of Saginaw, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Roscommon, Crawford, Otsego, Cheboygan, Mackinaw, Schoolcraft, Marquette, Houghton and Ontonagon. The line of the Flint and Pere Marquette road will be followed to the vicinity of Houghton lake, in Roscommon county. From this point the two roads will diverge, the Flint line to Marquette passing to the north-west and the Northern Michigan running due north to the straits of Mackinac.

North from Saginaw the Flint and Pere Marquette road has been completed during the present season to Midland, a distance of about 36 miles. During the next season the two companies will unite their energies and resources to build the road to the point of divergence, a distance of about 40 miles north of Midland. Toward this work the northern part of Michigan has subscribed the amount assigned them, $75,000. This has been taken as follows: Flint, $19,000; Wenona, $6,815; and the balance, with the exception of $1,000 [illegible] by O. M. Barnes, the present [illegible] Jackson, Lansing and Saginaw Railroad Company, was taken by the two Saginaws, the greater portion in East Saginaw. It is now confidently [illegible] that the 40 miles [illegible] will be completed early next season, when the road northward toward the straits will be pushed forward rapidly as practicable. This part of the enterprise is not yet [illegible], and the [illegible] are yet to be made.

Hop Growing in Wisconsin.

The Milwaukie Sentinel says that Wisconsin produced more than one-third, and Sauk county alone one-fifth of all the hops raised in the United States of the present year. The 4,000,000 pounds produced in that county brought something over $2,000,000, about $1,500,000 of which is clear profit, and they were raised in a little more than twenty-five hundred acres of land.

Odd Fellowship in the United States.

The report of the Grand Secretary of the Order in the United States has been received. It reports the membership at the present time to be 211,656; there having been an accession the past year of 33,764 members. The receipts for the past year have been $1,965,716 61, of which $1,180,123 50 were from bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge, and $506,593 64 from bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Encampment. The total relief [illegible] and in the same time was $634,875 97, of which $525,820 25 were by the bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge. The relief of widows by the bodies under the jurisdiction of the Grand Encampment was $64,655 12.

Contributions for the Democratic Party.

The New York Tribune, commenting on the alarm of the Copperhead press lest the Republicans of the South should elect just enough Pilots, says that the Democratic party cannot have this effective dispensation of Providence with the reflection that the leaders of the South have elected the President over since the administration of Jackson. Considered as chattels, their importance has constituted the chief power of the ballots cast by their masters, and those ballots have elected Van Buren, Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan. To this the cotton lords would probably reply that the negro furnished the muscle, and the white man the brains of the ballot.

Universal Suffrage.

Some months since considerable capital against Secretary McCulloch was made by some of the Copperhead papers, who copied and [illegible] upon certain statements made by Edward C. Dunbar, a New York penny-a-liner. This man who was a discharged employee of the Treasury Department, made some grave charges against the management of the internal affairs of the institution, and the Whisky Ring, whose tool Dunbar is supposed to be, caught up and circulated the statements far and wide. The Congressional Joint Committee on Retrenchment sent for Dunbar to testify before them; but Dunbar would not come. He was arrested, but could not or would not testify; he was finally released, having satisfied the Committee that he had "scruples of honor" as to divulging upon oath what he had so freely charged in the newspapers. Mr. Dunbar's painful experience is another example of the fact that it is far easier to make charges than to prove them.

The Copperhead papers of Oregon have been quoting largely from this characteristic libeller.

Senator Wade and the Rebel [illegible].

The Copperhead papers here have also been quoting freely from a late newspaper report of Senator Wade's opinions. The following late dispatch from Washington settles this matter:

Mr. Wade alludes in indignant terms to the conversation which was recently published in a Western paper concerning his political views. He says a

New Plan of Reconstruction.

A new plan for reconstruction is presented and advocated by the New York World, a paper which is known as the leading organ of the more intelligent portion of the Democratic party. In this plan the opinions of the ultra negro haters of the World's party are wholly ignored and the doctrine of a "white man's government" quietly set aside. The first thing that is proposed to give a start to the new movement, is a Convention comprised of moderate men of all sections, representing the various interests of the country. Here is the World's plan for a Convention:

"The South should be represented by such men as Wade Hampton, Alexander H. Stephens, Governor Orr, Ex-Governor Brown, William C. Rives, General Dick Taylor, General Longstreet, and others of similar moderation and standing. Our object of course is not to provide a list, but specimens. There is no greater error than for deploring the death of the late Governor Andrew than that such a conference cannot have the assistance of his counsels and eloquence. But the Republican party has many men capable of a similar liberality. Without going beyond our immediate vicinity for samples, we venture to name Hamilton Fish, William C. Bryant, Henry Ward Beecher, and even Horace Greeley, as men who could meet the representatives of the South in amicable discussion, with a sincere desire to reach mutually satisfactory results.

The World remarks that in regard to the negro question there are two extremes. On one side it is demanded that negro suffrage shall be immediate and universal; on the other, the permanent and formal exclusion of negroes from the ballot-box. That paper holds that in the present state of affairs, the restoration of the Union must be attainable "without considerable reference to the blacks." It reminds those who hold that a man's right to vote should be determined by the color of his skin, that the party which has given the suffrage to blacks of the South "are in power, by the Government, and time enough will elapse before the whites can be excluded to consolidate the white race in such a united antipathy to the blacks as to preclude or postpone to another generation all hope of harmonizing the two races." The words, the negroes are likely to [illegible], by Democratic intolerance, to that party, as to cause them [illegible] for a Republican at least. In addition to other and other difficulties, the following [illegible] with respect to negro suffrage:

"The [illegible] alteration of the Union is an immediate [illegible] as to be worth a merchant; but the living [illegible] is not attainable without considerable concessions in favor of the blacks. Our own plan would be, to require [illegible] action from the date of their [illegible] and then admit the first generation [illegible] qualification, (say what [illegible] of the first generation of white [illegible] this state); and in the second generation [illegible] ability of the heads of families [illegible] property holders, make [illegible] universal. The necessity for these dilatory [illegible] in the fact that the chief evil [illegible] in the State governments [illegible] and oppressive taxes; [illegible] which [illegible] no other protection [illegible] (and even this protection [illegible] that they who [illegible] also [illegible]

It will be seen that the World does not place [illegible] on color, but selects [illegible] that few of the negroes of the South [illegible]. This is a great advance [illegible] "nigger-worship," etc., which is not [illegible] the party by a larger number [illegible]. It is brilliant that [illegible] of the future [illegible] of New York, [illegible] that the only [illegible] and prosperous in the Union [illegible]

[illegible] Gov. Ballard are entirely harmonious [illegible]. His policy is one [illegible] that he is a highly [illegible] and [illegible] The Helena [illegible] on the Indian question [illegible] to be far from filled by Gov. Ballard; [illegible] they are putting in circulation [illegible] the following:

[illegible] are [illegible] and as in a late [illegible] [illegible] of the Treasury of [illegible] and the chief which has been [illegible] him and the President [illegible] Ballard was [illegible] by the President and [illegible] The latter, after being consulted [illegible] the extra session in July, [illegible] when the matter [illegible] to hold office but [illegible] refuse to recognize him, [illegible] appropriations for the [illegible] with his duties. The Senate at the last [illegible] Ballard's treaty with the Indian tribes of Idaho, which it was stipulated [illegible] receive a large amount of money. [illegible] Ballard [illegible] Territory [illegible] trouble in the work. [illegible]

[illegible] Gibbs for Governor [illegible] of the Holbrook slique, and the [illegible] found in [illegible] by private [illegible] or promote [illegible] for the Bulletin says:

[illegible] the telegraph informs us, has [illegible] to the Mormon and incompetent U. S. Marshal Gibbs, for Governor of Idaho. Now if [illegible] were any [illegible] for that he would be [illegible] by the Senate, we would ask in mercy [illegible] with due humility, what has Idaho to that effect? Is [illegible] by this man's [illegible] Has she not for over three years voted the Democratic ticket straight, [illegible] ting twice out [illegible] by conservative and good [illegible] Has not her Territorial legislature [illegible] been the best to rob the Territorial treasury and squander the people's money for political purposes? Did they not repeat all the acts [illegible] in their way, not excepting the "[illegible] act," which they all afterwards took and [illegible] with unanswered [illegible] in order to get this [illegible] banks? Did they not [illegible] the Union and the "evil disposed [illegible] first throw up their hats and exult in the [illegible] that [illegible] Mis Excellency President [illegible] Gibbs, the Mormon, be sent to us for a [illegible]? Looking at her political record for the last three years it would seem that [illegible] in reply to a [illegible] is "my policy" to get [illegible] without the services of the [illegible] Mormon Governor. We suggest to A. J. that [illegible] is very well that far, has answered [illegible] by the whites and repudiated [illegible] her legislature, ran the Territory in debt as far as [illegible] to rob the community [illegible], and has [illegible] a code of laws which [illegible], counsel nor juries can understand or appreciate. What more is there to do? We beg of A. J. to send Gibbs [illegible] elsewhere; to some Territory or field of labor where there is missionary work to do. There is nothing left in Idaho for him to do to [illegible] assist the Federal [illegible] and to "support the Democratic party," but to steal that [illegible] and [illegible] Mormon appropriations. That's the only [illegible] job that we can think of. If the Senate can be convinced that that ought to be [illegible], they will no doubt [illegible]

[illegible] says he will stand in the Senate [illegible] of the "[illegible] Democracy," [illegible] which carries with it a [illegible] deal of significance. What has become of the resolutions of '98 and the other ancient landmarks? Can any of the unterrified in Oregon tell?

At Sacramento City the water was higher about a week ago than ever before known, as is shown by the fact that buildings were carried away which withstood the great flood of 1861, the highest stage of water then known since the settlement of the country by Americans.

The Floods in California.

From the Alta of the 27th we take the following:

Reports from the Sacramento Valley indicate that a destructive flood, equal in extent to that of 1861-2, is now desolating the country. Thus far the levees of Sacramento have defended the city against inundation, and the worst of the freshet is probably past, but the region back of the capital, and the great level tract on the opposite side of the river must have been completely flooded. Travel on the railroad is suspended, bridges are carried away, and all ways of communication are cut off. The low land around Marysville is under water and the levee which was built along the line of the slough that puts into Feather river has broken away, so that the lower part of the city is flooded; it is morally impossible that the business part of the place can be under water, as has been represented. This repetition of the floods of other years will have a discouraging effect upon the farmers of the region where it has happened, and the spectacle of miles of water flowing where flourishing farms have been, is a disheartening prospect to any one. Unless the accounts are exaggerated, we may expect that the agricultural interests will suffer very much from this overflow.

From the Bulletin of the same date, the latest one received, we get the annexed intelligence:

Probably thousands of square miles of bottom land along the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers and their largest confluents are under water, and will remain so for a considerable time. The sudden rise of the mountain streams, amounting in many instances to from 10 to 25 feet in a single day, must have destroyed many bridges and flumes, carried away dams, broken ditches, and filled up mining claims. The elements of air and water work on a grand scale in the Sierra Nevada when under the fullest headway. Here is a mountain range some seven hundred miles long, which attains an elevation in a width of from 500 to 100 miles of 5,000 to 15,000 feet, and is cut into innumerable gorges at right angles to its trend. During one of our heaviest December storms from 20 to 30 inches of rain is precipitated upon this g. at water shed, drained into all its gorges, and poured at last into two principal valley channels of rather narrow and shallow dimensions. The flood that follows is simply inevitable. This year there is reason to believe it has been less disastrous than on some previous occasions.

TESTIMONIAL TO A DEMOCRATIC NEGRO.—A correspondent of the Richmond (Va.,) Enquirer says that in King William county in that State but one negro voted the "Conservative" or Democratic ticket; that is, he voted against the Convention, and in favor of the Democratic candidate for delegate, who, it should be observed, was a Colonel in the rebel army. The name of the negro is Thomas Ruffin, and the Enquirer says "the citizens of King William have united in a subscription to purchase a piece of land, and give it to this man for a home in this county, as his own." Thus it will be seen that if the negroes vote right, it removes all objection to their enfranchisement. If a negro votes the Republican ticket, then it is proclaimed that he has "drawn a blood-line" in politics, and the whites prepare to make it a bloody line by extermination; but when he votes the Democratic ticket he is to be cherished as a patriot and rewarded with a farm, and have his throat cut in short. And when the whites come to use public affairs as the blacks do, and to vote with them, then all will be lovely and mutually admiring.

Great Britain's customs receipts for 1866 were $189,480,000 in gold,—almost as much as those of the United States. Yet Great Britain is the country which is always talking about the benefits of free trade and urging us to adopt the system. The truth is, that country has always required duties to be paid on such commodities as it is her interest to tax in this way, and she always will. The sum of $40,000,000 is collected from tea, sugar and molasses, three articles of prime necessity. England's policy is to collect duties on all articles which are not produced at home and which the people are compelled to have.

We were not surprised the other day when we heard that poor old Beriah had been taken over to East Portland. He has long been manifesting unmistakable evidences of insanity. We can have no contest with such an unfortunate; but what shall we say of a set of men who are mean enough to use his name in giving publicity to articles through the "organ," the authorship of which they would be ashamed to openly avow? We have never known an instance of equal cowardice and meanness.

The Dalles Mountaineer learns that on the stormy night of the 22d, the dwelling of Adam Shirley, near Monmouth, was burned. Everything belonging thereto was destroyed, and the large family were driven out in the pelting rain. The loss of property is about $1,800. Mr. Shirley is a farmer, in good circumstances, and will feel his misfortune keenly.

THE CONDITION OF AN OREGONIAN IN THE ARMY.—At intervals I noticed that a large proportion of the men's [illegible] a box of Trochei, being generally used by them [illegible] Brown's Bronchial Troches." If the troops in the field appreciate the great appearance of a Cold or Cough, which by using it may terminate in some [illegible] Disease.

THE LUMBER MILLS OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY.—We have received a somewhat lengthy letter concerning the lumber mills of Washington Territory—called out by an item in the OBSERVER of a few days since, poking a little fun at a correspondent of the Vancouver Register. Purging the latter of its strictures upon our item and some other matter of immaterial import, we have the following left, as a statement of what the mills of Washington Territory are making and what they do with their lumber: "Your question now awaits consideration. What do those several mills do with their lumber? It is well known that large amounts are annually shipped to San Francisco, and we probably under-estimate the foreign shipments when we place it at 20,000,000 feet, carried in 25 ships averaging 800,000 feet each. In the annexed slip cut from the Weekly Bulletin, Nov. 23, which contains no more than the average weekly arrivals of lumber in San Francisco, as may be verified by examining any file of California papers, it will be seen there were four arrivals from Washington Territory ports, viz: Rainier, [illegible] 600,000 feet lumber; Oakland, 550,000; Tennessee, 525,000; Joan Joy, 700,000; making a total of 2,075,000. In the same column, seven ships are reported by the same arriving, as being left loading. One, the bark Yeoman sailed in company with the Rainier, and during the same week five vessels are reported as having sailed for lumber ports in our Territory. Taking the arrivals of lumber in San Francisco for the week ending Nov. 23, at a like speed, and multiplying by the number of [illegible] in the year, the result is 107,900,000. Examining the files of California papers for the month of November, it will be found there were 24 arrivals from Washington Territory lumbering ports. Allowing an average of only 875,000 each—which is much less than the real average, as will be seen when the fact is taken into consideration that the smallest vessels employed in the lumber carrying trade from this Territory, carry from 275,000 to 325,000 each, while the great majority carry 500,000 and upwards, and many carry 800,000—the total for the month will be 9,000,000, or 108,000,000 for the year. Adding 20,000,000 to the amount shipped to foreign ports, we have [illegible] for what is done with an annual product of near 128,000,000 feet."

VENISON MEATS.—Last evening we received by mail, copy of the Salem Record and Salem Chronicle of Dec. 14th inst. We have in each, items of interest to the [illegible] In the Record we find an article on "California [illegible]" from which it would seem that, at that early date the California press had fallen into such habits of "local reporting" as proposed to be ridiculed by the Oregon editor. The same paper has an item which would indicate that State Rights had then already been invented and were promulgated annually. It would [illegible] to say that the publication of giving a [illegible] had at even that infantile age of the world grown into vogue. A paragraph among the editorial miscellanies, stated that "When it is 12 noon at Washington, it is 3 o'clock, 55 minutes and 6 seconds at Portland." From which it would seem that, at that early date, the editor was supposed to be ofish[illegible] by the Oregon editor. California Politics.

The position of Eugene Casserly as Senator is a bitter pill for the 'old liners' of the secession persuasion, but they swallow it as in duty bound, with the best face possible. The San Francisco Times has the following notice of the new Senator:

Mr Casserly is an old free soiler. He was a member of the Buffalo Convention which nominated Van Buren in 1848, and which laid down the platform of 'free soil, free speech, free labor and free men, and his record as a Free Soil Democrat has been consistent up to a late period. In 1861, when Stanford, Conness and McConnell were running for the Governorship Mr Casserly wrote a letter in which he expressed a desire that all the friends of freedom should be united, made a powerful speech in favor of the Union at the first war meeting held in San Francisco, and was rather an supporter of the Administration up to 1864, when he advocated the election of McClellan.

Under the caption of "Well Satisfied," the Sacramento Bee makes the following remarks:

If the Democracy are satisfied with their Senatorial bargain, we think it safe to say that the Union men care also content. Indeed, it is not certain that Casserly could not have had, in a certain contingency, between forty and fifty Union votes in joint convention to make him Senator as against any of the chivalry that might have been run. Before the meeting of the Legislature, the Union men would have been willing to compromise with Democrats on Casserly—and now they have him and have been saved from voting for him. The chivalry fought him hard, but they were crushed out. The considerate members saw that it would not do to encourage, in any way, the lingering spirit of rebellion, and hurled upon Casserly as the person whose election would most sternly rebuke it. Not a few of them it is true, favored him because he was backed by many leading Irish Americans, and by the whole force of the Catholic Church, hoping that by [illegible] population would be more firmly wedded to the Democracy. We favored him hoping it would be a Peace Democrat, but when he [illegible] the Sanitary Fund and denounced [illegible], and became, too, of all the candidates [illegible] him the most competent for the position, and with the expectation, too, that his nomination would help to make treason odious.

The [illegible] Record follows in the same strain:

Eugene Casserly, who was yesterday elected by the [illegible] to the United States Senate to succeed John C[illegible], was, to Union men, by far the [illegible] objectionable candidate now [illegible] by the party, [illegible] of abolition; and the one, if all [illegible] desired to defeat. [illegible] so was it having been in Van Buren Free Soiler in 1848, with the [illegible] opposed being a strong Roman Catholic. Casserly had some real ability, however, [illegible] was, and by skillful use of it, managed to compass his desire. He is now secure in his triumph, and can afford to laugh at [illegible] as we verily believe he does, for we never saw a more [illegible] set of men than those same [illegible] in caucus was first an [illegible], and it was with a very poor grace that they went into Convention to-day to [illegible]

[illegible] says of him:

[illegible] in the Democratic ranks on this coast. Dr [illegible] struggle for the Union, he cast his [illegible] on the side of the Govern[illegible] the war measures and distinguished [illegible] Union [illegible] While [illegible] of California took a [illegible] in sympathy, if deeds, with the [illegible] Casserly took position at once [illegible] and in direct opposition to the [illegible] of his party, or rather, he had no party at that [illegible] were much as our servants made up of loyal [illegible] His position is another signal rebuke to the Copperhead [illegible] in this State. They [illegible] and got nothing. Casserly and [illegible] did not [illegible] the dominant [illegible] the Democracy take the late war for the [illegible] It was the fact that both of [illegible] men have been taken up as a compromise [illegible] of the State. The chivalry sing [illegible] for a thing done to come. The [illegible] and in spite of [illegible] party man.

[illegible] the above extracts to [illegible] 1861, we quote from a [illegible] of that year to [illegible] Democratic Com[illegible]

[illegible] Democracy at that time:

[illegible] pale and surprised like more [illegible] of the States [illegible] of the Union [illegible] McConnell, Esq., for the Gov[illegible] Low on that ticket and [illegible] who prove their friendship by [illegible] of the Union without a blow [illegible] that [illegible] Union must [illegible] the attempt to save it is almost a [illegible] by giving up [illegible] Casserly the Gal[illegible] of the Union and everything it has [illegible] they [illegible] not one word of [illegible] for these [illegible] and [illegible] by name [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] Stiff at any rate [illegible] Alas for the Union, if it has to rely on [illegible] like these! The best good faith [illegible] the country can [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] Her [illegible] the country can [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible] She has no [illegible] against the mistaken Alfred, while [illegible] holds her [illegible] [illegible] while they [illegible]

Now, what [illegible] man who talk[illegible] in this way is a "bitter pill" for the [illegible] Democracy.

Mr. [illegible] Sacramento correspondent relates the following conversation between a Chiv. and a War or Free Soil Democrat, as illustrative of the [illegible] over the election. The latter was endeavoring to convince his equally boozy opponent that Casserly would do first-rate for the [illegible] side of the party. The pleasant [illegible] of the latter was occasionally manifested [illegible] in the Chiv.'s most direct reply to the above style of [illegible]:

"Now, look [illegible] What do you take this child for? Do you [illegible] take me for a Chinaman? No sir. You [illegible] will have Case rly, for he's been [illegible] a term; [illegible] you see if they don't. Look [illegible] they ain't fools. Who [illegible] put 'em up as fools? They ain't no Chinamen. Look [illegible] here [illegible], didn't Bill Stewart go there with his [illegible] and his [illegible] to [illegible], all put up for a States Rights Democrat? Hey? Didn't he go in for a State Right State C[illegible] situation in [illegible] in Washoe, in 1863? You bet. And [illegible] didn't he start to go all [illegible], in support of Jefferson? You believe me? Didn't [illegible] he is one [illegible] hundred Andy up to the hub? Hey? [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] didn't they throw Lindy in less than a month after that? How did that happen? You [illegible] you? It's well as I do. You know, D[illegible] forget around him and [illegible] him, and compare him! Hey? Didn't [illegible] didn't they tell him he was likely to be one of the [illegible] Just [illegible] statesmen and philosophers that ever lived, and when [illegible] they had nursed him into producing the univ[illegible] suffrage proposition, didn't [illegible]—didn't they tell him he had become the greatest statesman and philosopher of his generation? [illegible] hey? And didn't they make him believe that? And didn't they use him and [illegible] him [illegible] they're using him [illegible] ever since? Hey? "Look," interrupted the other, "with all due regard for your old acquaintance, Bill Stewart and I supposing that he has been captured, you don't pretend to compare him in ability, to Casserly. It's fair to think that Casserly will not be so susceptible to flattery as Stewart. They can't play any soothing game over Casserly, whatever they may have done with Stewart." "They [illegible] can't, hey? May be you think so. In Casserly a bigger man [illegible] than old Reverdy Johnson? Hey? Casserly would eat [illegible] would'nt think he was himself. Well, hasn't those Rads captured Reverdy? Hey? Haunt [illegible], haunt they got him to send ballot ducks all round the country, calling for the Radical programme? Hey? Ha ha, [illegible] Laint he the greatest constitutional lawyer in the country? I should say so. Well [illegible] they soothed him, did'nt [illegible] they? Is I a man a smarter man than Reverdy? He [illegible]. So won't any so himself. Those Rads are no Chinamen. Don't they look a new man all over when he comes there, and go after him, and if he [illegible] can be got don't they fetch him? I tell you what it is, those fellers hain't got much, [illegible] much sand, but they've got a quantity of syrup. Hey? You bet you. I know how it'll be, [illegible], I can tell you just how it'll be when Casserly gits there [illegible]. I know. They'll tell Colie to be very gracious, and he'll rush out to the cloak room when [illegible], when one of the pages says Casserly's come. And Ben Wade will rush out, be introduced, [illegible], and give Casserly a regular Pumble chook grip. And then Conkling [illegible] he'll come out and beg [illegible] the privilege of accompanying the Senator, [illegible], with Colie, up to the Secretary's desk, where he is to take the oath. And Conkling [illegible] he'll commence talking about glorious [illegible], old recollections in New York [illegible] about Casserly. Well, [illegible] then Casserly 'll get up, in a day or two, and introduce a bill or more to amend the Appropriation Act so as to set aside five or ten thousand dollars for a revolving Drummond light house on Goat Island, and Fessenden [illegible] and Wilson [illegible] and Trumbull will jump up at once [illegible], and hope the bill 'll pass at once, or, hope amendment 'll be adopted without dissent. And then [illegible] old Sumner will get up, and he'll say that he's obliged to remark, that it can't be out of order [illegible] for him to say [illegible] right at that point that the Senator from California [illegible] who spoke, reminds him of some magnificent old Grecian Roman [illegible] that used to be carorting between Athens [illegible] and the Eternal City [illegible] about seventeen thousand years before Christ [illegible]. He'll fetch it—legitimate—you see. Then they'll have [illegible]—they'll have him then. They'll have him! THEY'LL HAVE HIM! No use your talking to me [illegible]. They'll have him. What we wanted [illegible] was a man to send there that they couldn't anodyne with their bows and with their classical complimentary blarney [illegible]. We wanted to send Healy or Washington, men [illegible] who don't know nothing about Demosthenes [illegible] nor Cicero, and don't care for 'em, or for anything else but old Virginia never tire. Hey? I tell you [illegible] these Rads are no Chinamen. They'll have Casserly, if he's ever so far from 'em now [illegible]. Didn't [illegible] didn't they make Bill Stewart a Doctor of Laws? Hey? Think of that? Hey? They're no Chinamen. They'll have [illegible] have Casserly a Doctor of Divinity, from Harvard, you see [illegible] if they don't, before next year's Christmas comes. Jim Forney will have biographies [illegible] and eulogies of Casserly as a barbarian of '48, until [illegible] you can't rest. And then [illegible] those Rads will talk the literary side of the House to him. You needn't [illegible] try to fool us. I give him up, right now [illegible]. It's all nonsense to talk about Casserly being one of us. If he thinks [illegible] he is now, they'll capture him so bad he can't tell his pervade."

The telegraph has already mentioned the "conversion" of W. H. L. Barnes to the Democratic party. The point to this "conversion" is that Barnes is the law partner of Casserly, and on the evening of the latter's election the former came out in the oil of the jubilations, renounced his [illegible] political association and threw himself into the arms of the victorious Democracy. As the circumstances of this case make it a matter of some interest, we cannot refrain from giving the Call's account of the "conversion" and the stinging letter of Frank. Pixley in reply to Barnes' assertions. Of course Barnes' defeat on under such circumstances can do no harm to the Republican party.

The following is the account given by the Call's correspondent of Barnes' remarks:

W. H. L. Barnes came out in a speech renouncing the doctrines of the Republican party, and proclaiming himself a Democrat. He said his eyes were opened by Gorham's Platt Hall speech and he subsequently spurned the glittering bribes offered him to make a canvass of the State in Gorham's interest. He would not become a party to the barbarous subjugation of the Southern people, or aid in pressing the heel of despotism upon their necks. He related his experience with Mr. Casserly: how he came to this country, arriving here without a friend on the Pacific coast, how Mr. Casserly had assisted him in business, and shown him kindness and consideration. He said that all he was, and all he had, he owed to the kindness of Eugene Casserly. Before leaving New York, Charles O'Conor, the greatest lawyer America ever had, had advised him to enroll himself Democrat immediately upon his arrival in California, and O'Conor had pronounced Casserly the greatest man in the United States." Mr. Barnes declared himself with the Democratic party from this time out, and offered to canvass the State in support of the Democratic nominee for President. At the close of his speech he [illegible] referred to the natural [illegible] with which our land was endowed, and the evidences that God [illegible] intended only for a white man's government. Mr. Barnes was received into the Democratic fold with loud and continued cheers.

Pixley's letter, which is about as cutting a production as we have lately seen, is as follows:

EDITORS OF THE CALL—Your Sacramento correspondent presents the important fact that Mr. W. H. L. Barnes, the law partner of the Hon Eugene Casserly, last, in a speech formally [illegible] the principles of the Republican party, and proclaimed himself a Democrat. "His eyes were opened by Gorham's Platt Hall speech, and he subsequently spurned the glittering bribes offered him to make a canvass of the State in Gorham's interest." I do not propose to take issue with Mr. Barnes upon the question that "all he was and all he had he owed to Mr. Casserly." I may have an opinion that it would be more manly for any individual to claim that something of his success is due to himself, to his own merits, exertion and genius, rather than to devolve it upon another; but if it pleases Mr. Barnes to proclaim the fact to his individual in sign's office, and to admit himself as only reflecting light borrowed from even "the greatest man in the United States," I am content. I will not even question Mr. Barnes' statement that "Charles O'Conor is the greatest law yer that America has ever produced," although my law [illegible] ing has accorded to such men as John Jay, Hamilton, Marshall, Story, Webster, and others, a [illegible] stable position in our profession. I do not write this note to complain that Mr. Barnes has abandoned in the hour of its reverse a party to which for all the years of his majority he has professed attachment. I may be surprised that a political judgment so deliberately made, and so long acted upon, should have been so easily disturbed. I may perhaps think it would have been more honest and respectable, if, having been convinced of his political errors on the 12th of July, that he should have made his public confession before the 20th of December, that he should have professed adherence to the party down to the day of its defeat, and that he remained a member of it even to the day that his law partner receives the highest honors of the Nation, as the gift of the Democracy, would seem to me very conclusive evidence that having so long fed upon the professional crumbs that fell from the table of Mr. Casserly, lawyer, he means to fit himself by his political change to live upon Mr. Casserly's political patronage and bounty in the future. The Democracy are welcome to Mr. Barnes. Hurray stump the State for their next Presidential candidate. He is no less to the earnest working man of the Union party. He will of course do that which his own sense of self respect and decency prompts him. Judas went and hanged himself, and I have always felt it was the best thing Judas could have done under the circumstances. The object of this communication is contained in the postscript. The glittering bribe which was offered Mr. Barnes to canvass the State in the interest of Mr. Gorham, and which he so indignantly spurned. I have this to say. If he would convey the idea of any reward being offered for his oratorical service, which he declined, or if he would give the impression that his services were sought, and by him refused to the party, he deliberately misstates the fact, and willfully misrepresents to the truth. After Mr Gorham's Platt's Hall speech, Mr Barnes personally complained to me that he had not been invited to enter the canvass; feared Mr. Gorham had some unkind feeling toward him, asked me as a favor to him to see Mr Gorham, and tender his (Barnes') service in any of the Bay counties, where he could speak and return to his office, so as not to interfere too much with his personal engagements. He expressed to me, on more than one occasion, his friendly feeling to Mr. Gorham, said he should support him, and accepted his nomination. I wish the Democratic party much joy of their acquisition, and only hope they may suffer as much in the future from this kind of men, as our party has suffered in the past.

FRANK M PIXLEY.

A peculiar carriage, with wheels ten feet in diameter and axils, has been constructed in St Louis, for use on the plains. It can be used as a boat in crossing.

THE TROUBLES OF A YOUNG MARRIED COUPLE IN A SLEEPING CAR.—The sleeping cars on the New York Central did not assort their cargoes. Male and female old and young are left to lay themselves for an extra $1 50 on shelves not much larger than those which grace the pantry of the gods house-wife—and they are stowed miscellaneously, in the same car, side by side with small regard to the proprieties which do rum sh old enforce between the sexes. A correspondent speaks of the troubles of a young married couple, whose berth was opposite his and who declared that the lady should occupy the upper shelf, while her husband was to take the lower one.

The car was dimly lighted, and yet the twilight flickering of the lamps made many things visible to the naked eye. We could not tell we would help but know from sounds and whispers that the lady had a fearful time of it in climbing up to the upper shelf—that her hoop skirt was a formidable obstacle to her elevation, being higher at the bottom longitudinally than the space between the berth and the upper part of the car—that the husband made fearful and frantic efforts to crush it down, and that like Banquo's ghost, it would not go down.

From all this it will be seen that the female undertook to take off the indispensable skirt and undress herself after she had got in her berth. John and the lady made heroic and energetic efforts to unrobe the latter, and it was some satisfaction to know that the labor was finally successfully accomplished. "Be careful, John," Don't tear my skirt, John," and many other remarks heard through the car, showed that John was doing his part manfully in helping the unrobing process.

Finally, after the female had got placed on the upper shelf for the night and John on the lower shelf, we all felt easier, and were just preparing to doze when a new trouble came to the surface. "John," said a shrill female voice, "did you bring my parasol?" "No," said John, "haven't seen it at all?" "Oh, Lord, John, then it's left at the tavern! What will I do?" she added in agonized tones. "D—n it, old gal," said an irreverent old brute who occupied the berth under the correspondent, "never mind your parasol, but use your parachute." This ungallant allusion to the boopskirt affair brought out an ill suppressed snicker, and then irrepressible laughter.

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IN BRINGING THE ABOVE-NAMED NEW REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It originated in Europe, where the actions of Medicine is so thoroughly taught and practiced, but owing to the poverty of its discoverer its [illegible] was not known beyond the limited circle of his acquaintance, in which, however, it [illegible] absolutely infallible in its eradicating effects from the eyes.

He immigrated to this country, bringing his discovery with him, but seems to have been [illegible] to the property of giving it general and wide-spread circulation, and as previously in his native country, seemed only desirous of using it among his friends and others.

The present proprietor was one of those who, for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and, after ineffectual efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally became himself the possessor of the secret of its preparation.

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale, he must yet lay claim to a desire to benefit his fellows by presenting to them a remedy which does and will cure where medical science can [illegible] render more relief.

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing; but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other attempt to cure them and which have been given up as hopeless and past being cured or relieved.

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial, and so confident is he of its success that he [illegible] all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IN IT FAILS TO CURE.

It [illegible] within the past year, [illegible] cases of GRANULATED LIDS INFLAMMATION, &c., of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN and SEVENTEEN YEARS STANDING, copies of which fact is [illegible] in the testimony of the following persons, living at and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county:

ALEXANDER L. WALKER was cured of inflamed eyes of nine years' [illegible]. Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for over two years. For one year they were such that she could not work. Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic [illegible].

E. B. MOORE, of the firm of Moore, Gurst & Baker, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for six years.

NATHANIEL BELL, of Clackamas county, had inflamed eyes—a bad case—for over fifteen years.

ROBERT RAMPEY and W. D. PORTER, of Harrisburg, JOHN M. HOLLOWAY, of Linn Co., Cyrus G. E. WARD, of Lane County were all afflicted, more or less severely, with diseased eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Balm.

All the above named persons have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg.

PROSPECTUS OF THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT!

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURchased the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE" of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, W. T., on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

The paper will be devoted to the Agricultural Mechanical Commercial, Mineral, Moral and Political interests of the whole Territory.

In Politics we shall uphold and sustain the Union Principles of the Nation, at the same time reserving the right to be INDEPENDENT on all subjects, that we may be better able to discuss all matters in their true light, and give credit wherever it is due.

We trust our friends will circulate this prospectus generally, and assist us in getting a good list of Subscribers, Advertisements or Job Work. We also invite correspondence from all sections of the Territory.

1868, OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT will be issued every Saturday at $5 per annum in advance.

If plan to receive a share of public favor we unfurl our banner to the breeze.
